THE MOSCOW TURNOVER

Three top Communists have been given the boot in Moscow and the significance of this new shake-up is of transcendent importance to Americans. A tentative opinion is that the change is definitely for the better, for the following reasons:

V. M. Molotov, Georgi M. Malenkov and L. M. Kanganovich — the three top Russians ousted are all Stalinists. They represent that faction in the Presidium and the Party's Central Committee which advocates the traditional ruthless Stalin philosophy of government.

Reports from Moscow indicate that Defense Minister Georgi K. Zhukov blocked an attempt by these three Stalinists, and others, to overturn the government headed by Nikita Khrushchev and Premier Nikolai Bulganin.

Khrushchev has said repeatedly that he would like to see Russia live in peaceful coexistence with the rest of the world. While we do not believe everything Khrushchev says, we believe he is less likely to plunge the world into war, or to start little wars, than such figures as V. M. Molotov.

WHERE TO LIVE LONG

It has long been known that women in the United States outlive the men. In spite of the fact that men are supposed to be the stronger of the sexes, women are actually stronger as far as life span and resistance to disease is concerned.

A recent state-by-state survey gives the states where citizens live longest. It is interesting to note that men and women live longest in a cluster of six states in the west North Central United States —Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Iowa, and Kansas. The life expectency in these states is about 68 years, which is above average.

In the rest of the Midwest and in the East and South, men's life expectancy ranges close to the national average of 66.3 years.

In general, wives can expect to live at least six years longer than their husbands, and this is true in almost any part of the country. Women, like men, live longest in the west North Central region, where their average life expectancy is between 73 and 74 years, about two years greater than the national average.

For the men at age 65, the greatest life expectancy can be found in Arkansas and Florida. Arkansas has an average life expectancy for men at 65 of 79.1, while Florida's average is 78.8.

Also for men, these are the states, where life expectancy at birth is lowest: Nevada has the lowest life expectancy of all, with a 62.8 average, foloiwed by Arizona, with a 63.3 average, and then New Mexico, with 64.3, and South Carolina with a 64.8 average. For women, states in which the life expectancy is lowest are: West Virginia, with a 71.1 average, Alabama with a 71.2 average, Kentucky, Delaware and New York with 71.3 average, Arizona with 71.4 average, and Nevada with a 71.5 average.

The best life expectancy for men, at birth, is to be found in the west NorthCentral states, Minnesota, Iowa and Nebraska all have 68.2 averages, while Kansas has a 68.0 average. South Dakota, at the top has a 68.4 average. North Dakota is only a tenth of a point behind, with a 67.9 average.

RUINING A GOOD THING

Nates Schulman, who, since 1943, has been giving away free meals at his restaurant in Chicago if people were hungry and had no money, has thrown in the towel. Recently he took down thhe sign which had offered the free meals.

The sign, which had been in place since 1943, read: "If you are hungry and have no money, come in and we will feed you — free."

In recent times, some young West Side Chicago toughs have been giving Schulman a hard time. They would come in in groups and demand that they be fed according to the sign. Schulman would tell them that they were minors and would have to bring along their folks, but that didn't embarrass them or turn them away.

Schulman said they caused a lot of noise and embarrassment and that, therefore, he had to take down the sign.

In a way, it is remarkable that the policy has stood the test for fourteen years. Schulman estimates he has given away 14,000 meals since then to people unable to pay or who claimed as much, at least. It is something of a minor social tragedy that a citizen's generosity and humanitarian policy is brought to an end by the unruly behavior of children who have not had proper parental training and supervision.

ON OPENING ONE'S MOUTH

It is always surprising what comes out of one's mouth if no thought precedes the utterance. One of the greatest signs of maturity in any person is that of holding his tongue, rather than popping off at the first impulse, when engaged in a discussion.

Although we admire those who are frank, which amounts to honesty, our society is so set up that those who use discretion and withhold their words, without actually lying, usually gain more and wind up with more friends.

The friends, of course, are friends because they actually don't know what the discreet man thinks, whereas they are quite well aware of the opinions of those who are completely frank.

The lesson we learn from all of this, and one of the great lessons in all of life, is to learn when to hold one's tongue. However, this is not a simple task and we suspect that the starting power of one's tongue is probably the closest thing to atomic power in the human body.

Washington Notes

TAX-TIME

The Tax Foundation has estimated that the average $4,500-a-year man in the United States must work two hours and twenty-six minutes a day just to pay his taxes.

TRAFFIC TOLL

Fatalities from traffic accidents in the cities of the nation during May were off six per cent from a year ago, according to the National Safety Council. The national reduction in traffic deaths was only two per cent, however. The May total of 3,100 deaths compares with 3.17 per cent in May, 1956.

LIFE INSURANCE

For the first half of 1957, purchases of new life insurance totaled $33,000,000,000 or thirty per cent above the same 1956 period, according to the Institute of Life Insurance.

CONSUMER PRICES

Consumer prices reached a high in May for the seventh consecutive month, with rising food prices a major factor in the increase. The upward trend, combined with a downward trend in the number of hours worked a week led to another small drop in factory workers' purchasing power. The Bureau of Labor Statistics' Consumer Price index rose 0.3 per cent in May to 119.6. This was 3.6 per cent higher than for May, 1956.

ECONOMIC INDICATORS

Money in circulation at the end of the first week in July totaled $31,146,000,000, as compared with $30,765,000,000 the same period last year, while the consumer price index was at its highest figure. Personal income in May was at an highest peak in history, totaling $340,500,000,000, compared with $399,500,000,000 for the previous month and $323,000,000,000 for May, 1956.

DEFENSE CONTRACTS

California seems to be getting the lions share of defense contracts, chiefly because of its aircraft and missile plants. For the first quarter of this yesar, that state received $633,000,000 in contracts. Others, in order, were New York, $497,000,000; Ohio, $334,000,000; New Jersey, $256,000,000, and Michigan, $175,000,000.

CATTLE

The number of cattle in the nation on January 1, was 12 per cent above the average for the period of 1946-55, according to the National Livestock and Meat Board. This marked a drop of two per cent from the previous year, but gave a total of 95,166,000, as compared with 76,820,000 for 1949, the year before the current rises in cattle population.

WHICH IS LARGEST?

New York City, which for years has claimed the title of World's Largest City, is shrinking in population and may have to yield the title to either Tokyo or London. New York with 7,771,509 persons by latest count, is smaller than Tokyo with 8,471,637, and Metropolitan London which claims 8,239,910.

LUNG CANCER

In the first public pronouncement on the subject since 1954, when it took note of evidence of a statistical association between cigarette smoking and lung cancer, the Public Health Service recently announced that "there is an increasing and consistent body of evidence that excessive cigarette smoking is one of the causative factors in lung cancer."

A PAIN IN THE HALLUX

Chicago.- The power lawn mower may save dad an aching back—but it can give him or Junior a pain in the hallux.

"Accident Facts," statistical year book of the National Safety Council, doesn't explain that the hallux is the big toe, but it does point out that the hallux, the four smaller toes and other parts of the foot are most frequently injured in power mower accidents.

A recent survey by the Georgia Department of Public Health revealed that one power mower injury in seven resulted in some permanent disability. Information for the survey was obtained from about one-fourth of the doctors in Georgia.

They reported 737 accidents in which 794 persons were injured during a period of less than two years. Direct contact with mowers caused 553 of the injuries. Objects thrown by the mowers accounted for 241.

More than nine-tenths of the accidents involved rotary type mowers, as compared with less than one-tenth for the reel type. No figures are available on the number of mowers of each type, but it is believed that the accident total for rotary mowers is due in part to the large number in use.

Many of us take vitamins during the winter to build up resistance to colds and other winter miseries. But, comes summer, too often our vitamins are stored away with mothballs.

The need for vitamins does not automatically disappear with the season. Summer, with its strenuous outdoor activities and vacation sports consumes our reserves; and the torrid hot spells rob many people of their usual vitality.

Normal appetities wane as the thermometer rises . . diets often become lop-sided—with further effects on general good health.

Summer is the time to continue taking vitamins to build up resistance for winter months. If you have been taking vitamins, don't stop now! And, if you haven't, why not check with your physician on the advisibility of beginning now.

Let him also suggest the formula that is best for you and for your children. We at (Spencer'a) feature a full selection of nationally known vitamins from makers of the highest ethical and pharmaceutical standards.
